

Amaranthus - 'Love-Lies Bleeding'

Courage and Positive Sexuality

- ☒ This plant was prominently grown by the Aztecs as a food crop until the invading Spaniards destroyed it. It is native to the tropics and blooms in August. To the ancient Greeks it symbolised immortality and in other cultures it was known as a mythical flower which never fades.
- ☒ It brings out negative thought forms around issues of courage and sexuality.
- ☒ Stimulates clear thinking and activates the heart and pituitary chakras.
- ☒ Amaranthus stimulates messages from the higher self and activates visionary capacities from the pituitary gland
- ☒ Useful when we're under strain from chemical imbalances in the body.
