

Scarlet Pimpernel

Releasing Entangled Relationships

Eases Grief and Fear of Rejection – Allows in Love

- ☒ Works mainly etherically. When the awakened kundalini travels up the spine, pimpernel helps it penetrate and activate each main chakra. This releases spiritual information and elevated emotions.
- ☒ This essence helps those of us who have trouble with our father image, men who have trouble relating to women and anyone who has difficulty demonstrating a loving nature.
- ☒ Weakness in the pituitary chakra can cause a weakened sense of personal identity and even a fear of society. This, for some of us, causes difficulties in leadership and personal initiative. For those of us affected in this way, Pimpernel brings clarity to our spiritual philosophy.
- ☒ It creates harmony in the dream state. Nightmares or an inability to interpret recurring dreams can be treated with this essence. It can give clarity to the source of tension.
- ☒ This essence can be good for psychotherapists. The flowers are very sensitive, closing up if rain threatens. This symbolises withdrawing into a meditative state when exposed to emotional stresses.
- ☒ This essence stimulates the heart and crown chakras. It renews creative, raw, 'earthy' sexual energies. It helps bring resentments into awareness, particularly when linked to sexual issues.
- ☒ It's useful if we're emotionally entangled. There are two states; being 'obsessed' or 'possessed' by someone else. In both cases we can't break free, even though the relationship is unsatisfactory. There may be strong psychic bonds originating from the dominant person. These can be difficult to break as we can have much to gain from the relationship at a possessive level. Often there's a deep fear about breaking free; that it will leave us void and desolate. In addition we'll have to face the anger of the dominant person. Domination saps our will-power and subverts our energies. The process frequently starts with the other person offering us something we want or feel we need – such as love, sex, money or spiritual growth. We may not see that these things have strings attached. Scarlet Pimpernel works at a hidden level, enabling us to disconnect from the ties that bind us and enabling us to gain enough power to break free or to reforge the relationship in a healthier way.
- ☒ It helps our tears to flow, allows us to better understand loss and supports us in crisis.
- ☒ Helps when we're trapped by inertia, high expectations, isolated by grief or a lack of communication.
- ☒ It eases vague fears and feelings of rejection and allows love to come in where life was barren.
