Releasing Suppressed Anger

Balancing our Centres of Sexuality and Communication

- ☒ This flower was developed in early Lemuria to develop speech and the formation of the larynx, which was previously associated with telepathy.
- ☒ Helps mental irritation and inability to express our feelings.
- ☒ This essence improves logic and helps stuttering.
- ☒ Can be associated with unresolved problems with our parents.
- ☒ There can be a real release of suppressed emotions, which can include rage and screaming.
- ☒ When we need Snapdragon flower essence type we possess a strong physical presence. We're highly energetic, with powerful wills and libidos. In some cases, these energies are so pronounced that they may override the other chakras of the body. In other instances, these forces may have been culturally repressed, causing the energy to be improperly released elsewhere in the body. With both these patterns of imbalance, we can misdirect digestive and sexual forces which rightly belong in the lower energy centres, distorting them through expression in the communication centre. The spoken word can be misused in a harsh or destructive way, with the tendency towards biting sarcasm or lashing criticism. There can be extreme tension in the jaw and mouth, grinding of the teeth, or the need to eat foods which provide continuous crunching, and chewing. Snapdragon essence helps us to re-direct our powerful metabolic and sexual energy into its rightful channels.
- ☒ At its deepest level, Snapdragon essence helps the soul distinguish between its use of creative forces-especially those in the lower energy centres, and those used for speech. By harmonising the relationship between these energy centres, the soul evolves in its use of creative power.
- ☒ Opens the minor chakra on the palm over the Mount of Venus, stimulating the throat and kidneys.
- ☒ Physically it aids in assimilation of magnesium, phosphorus and silver.
- ☒ Treats jaw, facial muscles, lips, vocal chords and aligns cranial plates. Strengthens tooth enamel.
- ☒ Treats Bells Palsy, lip cancer, tetanus, TMJ and imbalances in the throat region such as laryngitis, streptococcal infections, bronchial and oesophagal inflammations.
- ☒ Treats allergies that produce spots on the skin – best used when these are active.
- ☒ Aligns mental, causal and emotional bodies to formulate the ability of speech and treats damage to the brain's speech centre.
